Some time ago Tracy Van Vleet of St. Remy purchased a new Ford automobile in Kingston and ran it to his home and placed it in the garage in the rear of the residence. Next morning he found the garage door open and the car missing. The theft of the machine was reported to the sheriff and the police. A description of the car was sent broadcast and as a result it has been found at Elizabeth, N. J. One of the thieves is in jail but the other has so far made good his escape.

ULSTER APPLES IN SAN FRANCISCO

It will be remembered that the exhibit of Ulster county fruit shown at the state fair at Syracuse under the auspices of the Ulster County Farm Bureau was awarded first prize, and that a number of the exhibitors also received special prizes. Among the largest exhibitors were J. A. Heworth & Sons of Milton, who took many prizes. As a result of the publicity thus attained the Heworths have just filled an order for five barrels of their apples for the San Francisco fair. These apples were ordered from the Heworths by the San Francisco commissioners at the San Francisco fair to give those who visit the big fair an example of the finest apples raised in the state of New York, which are grown in Ulster county. The shipment consisted of one barrel of Baldwins, one barrel Newton Pippins, one barrel Sutton Beauties, one barrel Spy, and one barrel Jonathan apples. The Heworths also expect to ship some fancy boxes of apples to San Francisco later.

BIG STRIKE BEGINS IN SCHENECTADY

Schenectady, Oct. 4.—Fanned to flame by the ardent appeal of Alderman Simmons, an electrical worker at the General Electric works, who addressed a large meeting at Crescent Park today, the dissemination in organized labor ranks here resulted in the walk-out of additional General Electric employees. At present it is estimated that fully 5,000 workmen have taken up their work. Alderman Simmons declared that a committee from the metal trades union had waited upon the General Electric officials had been instructed to secure an eight hour day and only that. He urged concerted action to secure an eight hour day. He praised the machinery for their action. Alderman Simmons also estimated that at a meeting of the trolleyman held tomorrow night action will be taken to the end that no more will be carried to the General Electric plant. Organizer Koebler addressed a meeting at Red Men's Hall, and declared that there was any German movement behind the strike, and that inasmuch as he had arrested last night and found the men to go out clearly evidenced that they had nothing to do with it. The strikers now out are electrical workers, representatives expected and it is hinted that such will be the outcome. A state labor department has taken no action in the strike.

Large Meeting Postponed. Due to the inclement weather, the suffrage out door meeting has been held Saturday evening at Port Even, was postponed for days. Due notice will be given.

SODALITY MEETING LARGELY ATTENDED

Sunday afternoon the second annual convention of the Immaculate Conception Union of the Hudson river valley was held in St. Joseph's school hall on Wall street with delegates present from every parish in the valley from Irvington-on-the-Hudson to Catskill. At the business session the following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Reverend director, the Rev. William J. B. Daly, assistant rector of St. Peter's Church of Poughkeepsie; president, Miss Harriet Scott of Sacred Heart Church, Newburgh; first vice-president, Miss Mary L. Conger, St. Mary's Church, Poughkeepsie; second vice president, Miss Katherine Deady, Catskill; recording secretary, Miss Anna F. Devenaux, St. John's Church, Beacon; financial secretary, Miss Loretta Netter, St. Mary's Church, Kingston; historian, Miss Margaret Dempsey, St. Patrick's Church, Newburgh. The third annual convention will be held in 1916 in St. Patrick's Church, Newburgh, while the July meeting will be held in St. Mary's Church at Poughkeepsie.

The convention address was delivered by the Rev. William J. B. Daly, who spoke as follows.

If we were gathered here today, in the name of any noble person, renowned for secular achievements, or for holiness and the mastery of self, we should feel justly proud. The thrilling story of little St. Agnes, beautiful and innocent, with her victory over the intrigues, against her virtue by the Roman youths and magistrates of Nero's time; and her martyrdom, because she would have no other spouse than Christ Jesus, would place her as a worthy model to whom we should be pleased to pledge allegiance. Or if we selected St. Catherine of Siena as the model for a society, how delighted we would be to take to ourselves some of the enduring honors which belong to her. The recollection of her wonderful deeds would exalt within our hearts new fires of zeal for personal perfection and love of neighbor. Her admirable sweetness, heroic patience, love for the wayward, the sick and the poor, together with success in bringing peace between the turbulent Guelphs and Ghibellines of Florence would truly arouse our deepest loyalty. Great and noble as these and thousands of others are, still there is one, greater than all others, and made so by the Eternal Father, to whom we are united by membership in our sodalities, and this "morning star," this "queen of angels," the purest of the pure, the Mother of the Savior of mankind, the ever blessed Virgin Mary. We honor her because Jesus Christ honored her in making her His Mother. No other creature, not all the others united by a bond of highest deeds, can compare with this gift of Israel. What shall be our pride and loyalty, having such a model for our lives? Mary called to us for a ministry, that of the Mother of the Savior, was not permitted by Him to be merely a passive channel of His grace. He made her a voluntary instrument who should contribute to the great work of mankind's salvation by the use of her own will. Hence the Eternal Father sent the archangel Gabriel to make known to her the mystery of the Incarnation, that which kept the world expectant throughout the ages. The moment Mary, the elect of God, gives her consent the heavens are opened, the Son of God is made man, and the world has a Redeemer. It is, and always will be, true that having once received the author of our salvation through Mary, we shall necessarily continue to receive help towards our salvation in the same manner. Our love of our Divine Savior is the unchangeable foundation of our devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary. Her power with the Lord remains the same, and hence she can plead for us without fear of refusal. When we honor Mary, or any of the saints, we must entirely refer it all to God and to our eternal salvation. All true religious worship flows from, and returns to, God, and is in no wise diverted from Him by being lent to His creatures. He alone is the creator, the omnipotent one. What we honor in Mary, and the saints, is the very fact of their dependence on that primary being to whom alone all true worship relates. The glory of God can not be diminished, nor can Christ envy her, since He is Himself the source of every grace she possesses.

If we deeply revere the virginal chastity which enabled the Blessed Virgin to conceive the Son of God, we will imitate it in our own souls. Eager, indeed, should we all be to do honor to Mary, since the Creator selected her from among all the noblest works of His hand. Our rule for loyal devotion to so heavenly a model should be based upon the true facts of her character, as told in the gospels. In them we find that it is not the special graces, nor the wondrous power given to Mary, but rather her modesty and self-restraint that tell of the essence of her character. God alone, says Bossuet, is enough for her, and constitutes her whole happiness. These are the thoughts of true sodalists, who honor Mary because of her exalted and perfect position, given to her by the will of God. We can not be her clients if we are not also her followers, cherishing in the highest degree the virtues of modesty and charity. Through Eve there came corruption, death and a curse. Eve listened to the angel of darkness, and believed the serpent, a fault of rash credulity. Through

AMERICAN MARINES IN HAITI.

The picture shows marines for the U. S. S. Washington, ashore near Port Au Prince, Haiti, where they are still in charge of the affairs of the "Black Republic." It is probable, that in view of the present turbulent state of affairs in the island, the American occupation will continue for some time. Dr. Bobo, leader of the revolutionary forces is now in Cuba where it is said, he is fostering another revolution. Some of his adherents are still in Haiti showing resentment to the American occupation.

Mary came the work of restoration, the word of life and a blessing. She is spoken to by an angel of light, who places her in union, and not in rebellion, with God. Mary the Virgin, says Bossuet, presents us with the fruit of life and becomes the advocate of the virgin Eve. We should renew today our promises of loyalty to the "Queen of Heaven," our model; and each day of our lives should bring us needed graces from our virtues, and through the intercession of the Blessed Mary, Ever Virgin, the Hope of the World.

The Sodality of The Children of Mary.

The history of this sodality begins in 1849, as indicated by the letter of Rev. Father Nadal, of Sicily, Italy, who is acknowledged as its founder. After the wonderful progress made for the benefit of spiritual perfection of its members, and the innumerable works of mercy and charity for the poor and the wayward, Benedict XIV said that it "wrought good untold in all orders and ranks of men." The three fundamental and urgent requirements for members are these: Proof of an upright character, devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary, and a more than ordinary goodness in every-day life. This first sodality was copied in 1860 by Father Leon, S. J., who introduced it to his pupils in the Roman College in Rome. The original idea of Father Nadal was faithfully kept by the sodalities of the Eternal City. Later Father Leon carried the rules to Paris; it was established at Prague in 1875, and at Cologne in 1876 in Barcelona in 1877, at Freiburg in 1881, St. Omer in 1882, and at Lisbon in 1883. The Roman sodality was designated as the Primary Sodality, and recognized as the Mother Sodality of the world by Gregory XIII, on December 8, 1584. Its list of members shows the names of many famous men such as: Writers and scholars; Cornelli, Lupinus, Bollandus and Cauchy; painters; Rubens and others; preachers; Bossuet, Fenelon and Bourdaloue; cardinals and generals, magistrates and ministers of state, kings and popes; Francis, the Bishop of Geneva; Alphonsus, moralist, Charles Borromeo, and many others less prominent, but truly devoted to the spirit of the sodality. Even in these latter days each parish sodality keeps faithfully the rules and customs established at the beginning, and these are: Recitation of the office of the Blessed Virgin Mary at the regular meetings; daily recital of the rosary; practical devotions and frequent reception of the Eucharist. These spiritual exercises lead the hearts and minds of the members to greater personal perfection, and thus make them more worthy and zealous for the many works of mercy and charity to which they lend themselves. Since 1894 women have been admitted as active members, and at present most of the parishes in Europe and America have sodalities dedicated to the Virgin Mary and affiliated with the Primary Sodality of 1584.

Hudson Valley Union of Children of Mary Sodalities.

This union had its first meeting in St. Peter's, Poughkeepsie, on Rosary Sunday, October 4, 1914. At this meeting, which was the establishment of the union, there were 422 delegates present, representing these parishes: Beacon, St. Joachim's and St. John's, Catskill, St. Patrick's, Cold Spring, Kingston, St. Joseph's and St. Peter's, Newburgh, St. Patrick's, St. Francis and the Nativity; Saugerties and Wappingers Falls. The constitution and by-laws were written by Rev. William J. B. Daly, the present director of the union, and its founder.

Letters were also received and read from Bishop Patrick Hayes, auxiliary bishop of the New York archdiocese, and the Rev. Edward F. Garish of St. Louis, Mo. The convention was one of the most successful held.

GATHRIGHT WILL RUN FOR ASSEMBLY

The returns from the recent primary election show that Eldridge M. Gathright received fifteen votes for member of assembly in the Second district on the Bull Moose ticket. On the Democratic ticket Mr. Gathright received 60 votes while Abram LeFever received but 31. In the first district Henry R. DeWitt lost to Isidore Sampson on the Bull Moose ticket by eight votes, the whole number of votes cast by the Bull Moose being 24, George W. Nash and Daniel M. Blakney each receiving one.

H. V. F. A. Officers Meet.

The annual meeting of the officers and board of directors of the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association was held at the Stuyvesant Hotel on Saturday evening and Charles A. Went of Haverstraw was elected chairman of the board of directors for 1915-16, and Patrick J. McCarthy of Hudson was elected secretary. Plans for the convention to be held in Poughkeepsie in June next year were talked over and it was decided to take Putnam county into the association. There are several companies in that county which will now become members of the association who have taken part in a number of parades in the various cities during the annual conventions. President Cole appointed E. Otis Van Aken, chairman of the auditing committee, the other members being George W. Swarthout of Catskill and Fred Wohlfahrt of Poughkeepsie. Among those present at the meeting were President Seth T. Cole of Catskill, Second Vice President Frank E. Wiley of Suffern, Treasurer Andrew J. Murphy of Kingston, Secretary P. J. McCarthy of Hudson, and Directors Charles A. Went of Haverstraw, William H. Frank, Jr. of Poughkeepsie, Richard Hallenbeck of Hudson and William H. Kolts of Kingston; members of the auditing committee, George W. Swarthout of Catskill and Fred Wohlfahrt of Poughkeepsie, Irving L. Nestell, Roscoe Irwin, Thomas J. Kennedy and Raymond Whitebeck.

A Favorite Amusement.

"Kicking their wives in the stomach seems to be a favorite form of amusement among the negroes on the brickyards," remarked Recorder Lang this morning when a colored woman appeared before him to lodge a complaint against her husband. From her story her husband beat her by first attempting to throw a lamp at her and then promising on the stove lighter and then finishing up by kicking her in the stomach. Further developments are expected.

Willing to Work.

The Rev. I. T. Matthews of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church, preached a very eloquent and forceful sermon to his congregation on Sunday evening. His subject was "What People Can Accomplish Who Are Willing to Work." He took for his text Nehemiah, fourth chapter and 4-10 verse. Mr. Matthews is a very earnest and forceful speaker and an energetic worker. The results of the Rally Day were $214.31.

Schubler's Grape Juice.

The Schubler Grape Juice Company began pressing tons of grapes this morning to make their celebrated grape juice. The company has ordered ton after ton of grapes from growers in that vicinity, especially at Highland, Marlborough, Milton and Clintondale. Large orders for summer shipment have been received.

LIQUOR TAX RECEIPTS INCREASE

Slight Falling Off in Number of Licenses Issued and Great Increase in Amount of Money Received.

In spite of the increase in the cost of licenses this year there will be but a slight falling off in the number of third parties in Ulster county during the coming year.

The office of the county treasurer was kept open Saturday night in order to give the license seekers a chance to secure their licenses and up until closing time Saturday the total number of licenses issued was 283, while at the same time last year but 206 had been issued. As several more will apply for licenses there is every indication that the number will be approximately the same this year as last year in spite of the twenty-five percent increase in cost.

Until October 2 last year the total amount paid in for liquor licenses was $83,395, while this year with 17 less licenses issued, $104,746.98 has been paid in.

When the announcement was made that the cost of licenses had been advanced it was predicted a number of saloons would be compelled to close, but although there may be a slight falling off in number issued the revenue will be very much greater than last year.

Y.M.C.A. MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN

This evening the big Y. M. C. A. membership campaign will be launched when the men who will help make it a success will meet at the association at 6:30 o'clock for supper and final plans will be made. After supper there will be a big automobile parade through the principal streets of the city. The membership committee have been divided into teams and each team has taken the name of a team in the National League. The campaign will be carried on the entire month and it is expected to increase the membership to at least 1,500 members. The boys department will also have a membership campaign carried on in conjunction with the other campaign and the workers will be known as the American League. They will meet for supper on Tuesday evening at the building. The American League will also take part in the big parade this evening, meeting at the association at 7 o'clock.

Recorder's Court in September.

Recorder Lang collected $39 in fines during September, according to his report for the month, filed with City Clerk Cummings. Probation Officer Weldemann's report for the month showed that 22 boys were on probation from the preceding month and that 6 were placed on probation during September, a total of 23. Of this number 11 have been discharged, leaving 17 remaining on probation. Larceny and malicious mischief were the principal reasons for the boys being placed on probation.

WILLARD WANTS THAT $4,000 SALARY

The Difference Between Being Secretary and Executive Secretary and Jobs Elucidated in Special Term.

Echoes of "Honest Bill" Sulzer were heard in the Ulster special term of the supreme court Saturday, when application was made to Judge Hasbrouck by Francis A. Willard for a peremptory writ of mandamus to compel State Architect Lewis F. Pilcher to reinstate him as executive secretary in his department at a salary of $4,000 a year.

Mr. Willard was one of Sulzer's publicity managers and was most successful in giving "Honest Bill" a start in that direction. "Honest Bill" took to publicity like a duck to water and his commendable efforts to secure it for himself was successfully aided by Tammany Hall. It was intimated in Saturday's argument that Mr. Willard was promised a state job which would pay $7,500 a year. Governor Sulzer had several such jobs to dispose of but they went elsewhere than to Willard, who finally was appointed secretary to the state architect at a salary of $2,700 a year. He was appointed April 1, 1913. Under his original appointment he served under State Architect Suttorff. On October 1 after his appointment his salary was reduced to $2,500 and he was put in the non-competitive class.

Governor Sulzer spent some time in looking for an architect who measured up to his ideals and finally hit on Mr. Pilcher, the present incumbent Mr. Pilcher later appointed Willard "executive secretary" at a salary of $4,000 a year, and later Mr. Pilcher requested the state civil service commission to put him in the non-competitive class for that position.

According to the attorney general's representative who appeared for State Architect Pilcher at Saturday's hearing, the difference being "secretary" and "executive secretary" was merely a matter of $1,500 a year. It was intimated on behalf of the state architect that Mr. Willard began looking for additional duties which would warrant his receiving an increase in salary. Those were the palmy days of Democratic control in the state, and when Mr. Willard's more experienced friends began to add him in looking, they found the word "executive," which they prefixed to his title of "secretary," and added $1,500 a year to his salary.

Various charges are made on behalf of Mr. Willard that politics played a prominent part in his removal, and his counsel, Henry Kohl of Newburgh, stated in a horrified way that an amendment to the law which was passed by the last legislature was drawn with the intention of putting a politician in office. Although it did not appear in the morning paper or during the argument, Mr. Kohl has had some experience himself in doing what he charges the legislature with having done.

As indicating what Mr. Pilcher's intentions were, it was pointed out by Mr. Kohl that the appropriation bill for 1914 contained an item of $2,500 for "secretary" for the state architect, but that Mr. Pilcher instead of paying Mr. Willard that sum, paid him a salary of $4,000 per year out of the contingent fund and allowed the $2,500 appropriation to lapse and go back in the state treasury. Therefore, he argued, it was intended that Mr. Willard's position as "executive secretary" should be distinct as to duties and salary from the "secretary." This year's appropriation bill contained an item of $4,000 for "executive secretary."

On behalf of Mr. Willard, it is claimed that Wicks of Oneida, chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, was desirous of procuring Willard's place for Francis E. Roberts of Utica, one of his constituents, and that Mr. Pilcher told Willard he would abolish the position of "executive secretary" and give him another position at the same salary. Mr. Roberts now occupies the place.

Mr. Willard's experience in politics evidently led him to remember conversations he had with State Architect Pilcher, and he did not overlook statements which to a novice would have appeared in a different light.

Mr. Willard claims that when Mr. Pilcher told him "Governor Willard, would you please as executive secretary," he replied, "You know it is not the governor so much as the head of the department of agriculture." To this he claims Mr. Pilcher replied, "You know the governor has absolute control of all positions in the state service" whereupon he said, "Let us go together to Grade Crossings Assessed.

A premium would appear to be placed on grade crossings of railroads by the state tax commission by its action in assessing the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company and the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company $13,500 each for the Washington avenue viaduct. In accordance with a recent decision of the court of appeals, holding that viaducts are the property of a municipality, the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company on Saturday secured from Judge Hasbrouck a writ of certiorari to review the assessment of the state tax commission for the railroad's special franchise, and similar action, it is understood, will be taken by the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 4, 1915.

Former Judge Cullen has lapsed from his customary rationality in advising people to vote against the new Constitution because it contains no express prohibition of the trying of civilians by military tribunals. The Constitution of the United States already prohibits abuses of this kind, and the Supreme Court has so decided. It would be as sensible to oppose the new Constitution because it does not prohibit lynching. Instead of putting more things into the fundamental law it would be better to remove some of the provisions already contained, leaving such matters to the Legislature. There is no voter with the ability to think who would not like to see some change made in the proposed Constitution, and the same is true of the very delegates who adopted it. No product of the human mind is perfect, but this document comes as near to perfection as could well be expected. It is the opinion of our best minds that it is a step forward in the path of good government, and if it is defeated it will be a decided disadvantage to the State.

There are so many propositions before the people in this campaign that there is danger of too little attention being given to the question whether bonds shall be issued to raise $27,000,000 to complete the barge canal. Most of us are tired of seeing vast sums of public money spent on canals, which are pretty well out of date as means for transportation, especially as the expenditure already made in this way would have enabled the State to build two railways from New York to Buffalo and operate them without charging anything for carrying passengers and freight. However, there is no use in crying over spilled milk. The State is committed to this project and is simply obliged to go on with it or become the laughing stock of the world. It is an unmanly, average woman, if you like, who is the champion of the non-renewable canal. For an unbroken hour she had stood there, smoothing out wrinkles and polishing the bit of cloth destined to cover the family dining table, and she must smooth and polish still more before calling it finished. And that was only one item in the weekly supply, the mother in the home and not over-weak. And as one looked first at the sides being unfair to the present generation. The canal will be a while, it was with the growing concern should be spread over many years. Therefore, no matter what anybody thinks about canals in a general way, whoever votes against the proposed bond issue votes to rob him- self.

The Rev. John Wesley Hill, president of the International Peace Forum and Chautauqua lecturer, is being brought in the limelight of lawsuits close on the heels of the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the Plymouth Tabernacle, Brooklyn, and well known Chautauqua lecturer. Dr. Hill has been sued by a young woman who formerly managed his lecture tours. Only the summons has been served, but the young woman is quoted as saying the suit is for an accounting of money she gave Dr. Hill to invest for her. It is to be hoped that no attempt will be made to shroud the suit in mystery and that it will be fought to a finish, as Dr. Hill's family and attorney promise. Dr. Hill's troubles do arise over financial transactions, and the suit against him is brought by a nephew who seeks only reparation and not monetary compensation. The suit develops the fact that Dr. Hill has been engaged in extensive under deals in the East. Friends of clergymen rally to their support when they are sued the same as other men's friends do under similar circumstances, but it is neither sensible nor seemly for them or their friends to make vehement denials which later it may be necessary to retract. A clergyman is just as much entitled as any other man to use every honest effort to make provision for his family and for his own old age. When he enters business he is expected to follow business usages the same as any else, but if he attempts to use one set of ideals in his particular business and another in his personal and private affairs he loses caste which and his back to the tasks of the day.

no amount of vehemence will make the public expects more of a clergyman in the moral line than he all his father—a mighty good of anyone else. The public has a father in practical ways, he said—right to a realization of such expectations. The protest itself breeds down all the sun dropped low in the heavens, never slipping in a bit of beauty on the side, never pausing for recreation, never even seeming to see Saturday's special term of the Supreme court.

The Blakeslees were married and formerly lived at Phoenixia. Last February they lived with Blakeslee's parents at Allaben. While there, some of the acts on which the action was based took place with the evident knowledge of Mrs. Blakeslee, whose sister also lived in the same house and cared for the various rooms. The two sisters staid there until Blakeslee put them out, according to the testimony of Mrs. Blakeslee's sister.

The co-respondent named in the suit is Effie Highlander, whose husband, Mr. Ashley, appeared as a witness for Mrs. Blakeslee. He has not lived with Effie for more than a year. In March, Effie was living with her father, William Highlander, at Chichester, where Blakeslee visited her. One night Ashley saw Blakeslee go there and notified her father, who was at a hotel. On his return home unexpectedly he saw Blakeslee leaving the house attired in raiment not suited to the season of the year but prepared to do warmer clothing as soon as he stopped running. Effie's father supplied part of the testimony.

Judge Hasbrouck directed that a decree be prepared. Michael Lackey, Jr., appeared for Mrs. Blakeslee; there was no appearance on the part of the husband.

A friend of the family, a young man who wore a brilliant green sweater, was present in the court room while the case was being tried, and expressed the exuberance of his enjoyment of the testimony with such loud guttural that Judge Hasbrouck was compelled to direct the court officers to put him out. The wearer of the green sweater continued his expression of joy after he reached the corridor and until long after the case was concluded.

Mrs. Lewis Loved Another.

A trial was also had of the action for divorce brought by Walter Lewis against Elizabeth Lewis. The parties were married at Valden in 1902, but have not lived together for some time. Testimony was given showing that Mrs. Lewis was living with Joe Frank at Alsen and that in every respect she has been the same as a wife to him. Decision was reserved. J. L. Patrie of Catskill appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance on the part of the defendant.

HIS WAY.

(By Our Women Editor.)

Sometimes one is bound to think that civilization as we know it today has made life rather hard for the average man and woman in some of the standards it upholds. It has supplied us with the choicest of products for our homes and with luxuries unheard of before and has developed within us a fine taste for all that is beautiful but somehow, in the process, it has taken away from us much of the real pleasures and comforts of life. For we work so long and so hard for the material glitter and gloss and spend so many weary hours in trying to live up to modern standards that we lack the time and the heart to enjoy life as it hurries by.

And our civilization, that has been so prodigal with its luxuries and all that, has not taught us how to measure our values, what most to strive for, what to sacrifice when sacrifice must.

We want our homes furnished as royally as may be, as beautifully, as comfortably—as splendidly as those of our neighbors. And if we are particularly ambitious in that striving way we will sacrifice much to achieve it.

If we are men, we will shut ourselves up in dingy old offices and shops and factories, working, not for bread and butter and a bit of jam, but for another piece of fine old mahogany to adorn our home, a higher-powered car, when the old one is quite high enough, or a luxurious something that keeps us pegging away in the dark, while the beautiful world is singing outside.

And if we are women—but it was a woman that brought about this trend of thought, a work-a-day woman, an average woman, if you like, who is the champion of the non-renewable canal. For an unbroken hour she had stood there, smoothing out wrinkles and polishing the bit of cloth destined to cover the family dining table, and she must smooth and polish still more before calling it finished. And that was only one item in the weekly supply, the mother in the home and not over-weak. And as one looked first at the sides being unfair to the present generation. The canal will be a while, it was with the growing concern should be spread over many years. Therefore, no matter what anybody thinks about canals in a general way, whoever votes against the proposed bond issue votes to rob him- self.

The Rev. John Wesley Hill, president of the International Peace Forum and Chautauqua lecturer, is being brought in the limelight of lawsuits close on the heels of the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the Plymouth Tabernacle, Brooklyn, and well known Chautauqua lecturer. Dr. Hill has been sued by a young woman who formerly managed his lecture tours. Only the summons has been served, but the young woman is quoted as saying the suit is for an accounting of money she gave Dr. Hill to invest for her. It is to be hoped that no attempt will be made to shroud the suit in mystery and that it will be fought to a finish, as Dr. Hill's family and attorney promise. Dr. Hill's troubles do arise over financial transactions, and the suit against him is brought by a nephew who seeks only reparation and not monetary compensation. The suit develops the fact that Dr. Hill has been engaged in extensive under deals in the East. Friends of clergymen rally to their support when they are sued the same as other men's friends do under similar circumstances, but it is neither sensible nor seemly for them or their friends to make vehement denials which later it may be necessary to retract. A clergyman is just as much entitled as any other man to use every honest effort to make provision for his family and for his own old age. When he enters business he is expected to follow business usages the same as any else, but if he attempts to use one set of ideals in his particular business and another in his personal and private affairs he loses caste which and his back to the tasks of the day.

A farmer read me a letter he had just spring from his own book of life. It was in the early hours of morning and the earth was all a-quiver with joy at waking up from its long winter sleep, and as I stood with him looking away over his fields to the everlasting hills beyond, his mind wandered back to the long-ago time when, as a boy, he stood with his father in the very same spot, looking out upon the self same mountains. The father was deep-bowed over his task, but the boy felt inspired not to work, but to pause and admire. First he spoke of his pride in that particular spot in the farm which seemed to him in the whole of the sky and the mountains—but the father made no reply and grimly went on as before. Then he looked down in the valley at some of their neighbors and exclaimed at what they were doing—but the father, with never an upward glance and never a showing of interest, significantly reminded him that he had no time to look at his neighbors but had to work enough of his own. The youth, duly snubbed and not beauty, but duty, bent his head private affairs he loses caste which and his back to the tasks of the day.

And it was true, as we have grown to reckon wealth and poverty, that he had not an overflow of material riches, but he had comfort enough, luxuries enough and independence enough to carry out his own ideas of what made for "living" as he went through the world.

And was he right or wrong?
FRANCES SHAFFER.

MANY DIVORCE SUITS.

Spectator With Green Sweater Had to be Ejected From Court.

Unusual conditions were disclosed by the trial of the divorce action brought by Martha Blakeslee against Barnet Blakeslee, which was tried before Judge Hasbrouck at Saturday's special term of the Supreme court.

The Blakeslees were married and formerly lived at Phoenixia. Last February they lived with Blakeslee's parents at Allaben. While there, some of the acts on which the action was based took place with the evident knowledge of Mrs. Blakeslee, whose sister also lived in the same house and cared for the various rooms. The two sisters staid there until Blakeslee put them out, according to the testimony of Mrs. Blakeslee's sister.

The co-respondent named in the suit is Effie Highlander, whose husband, Mr. Ashley, appeared as a witness for Mrs. Blakeslee. He has not lived with Effie for more than a year. In March, Effie was living with her father, William Highlander, at Chichester, where Blakeslee visited her. One night Ashley saw Blakeslee go there and notified her father, who was at a hotel. On his return home unexpectedly he saw Blakeslee leaving the house attired in raiment not suited to the season of the year but prepared to do warmer clothing as soon as he stopped running. Effie's father supplied part of the testimony.

Judge Hasbrouck directed that a decree be prepared. Michael Lackey, Jr., appeared for Mrs. Blakeslee; there was no appearance on the part of the husband.

A friend of the family, a young man who wore a brilliant green sweater, was present in the court room while the case was being tried, and expressed the exuberance of his enjoyment of the testimony with such loud guttural that Judge Hasbrouck was compelled to direct the court officers to put him out. The wearer of the green sweater continued his expression of joy after he reached the corridor and until long after the case was concluded.

Mrs. Lewis Loved Another.

A trial was also had of the action for divorce brought by Walter Lewis against Elizabeth Lewis. The parties were married at Valden in 1902, but have not lived together for some time. Testimony was given showing that Mrs. Lewis was living with Joe Frank at Alsen and that in every respect she has been the same as a wife to him. Decision was reserved. J. L. Patrie of Catskill appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance on the part of the defendant.

Former Kerhonkson Residents Separated.

A motion was made to change the place of trial of the action for separation brought by Amy Decker against Eugene Knapp Decker. The separation is asked for on the ground of cruelty, which is denied. Decker now lives in Wallkill. The parties lived at Kerhonkson from 1906 until February of this year when they separated. Mrs. Decker going to Sullivan county, where she retained Ellsworth Baker several weeks later to bring the action, the venue of which was laid in Sullivan county.

Judge Jenkins, on behalf of Decker, moved to change the venue from Sullivan to Ulster county for the convenience of witnesses who he said would be residents of Kerhonkson. Judge Hasbrouck reserved decision.

Chauffeur Charged With Desertion.

A motion for alimony and counsel fee in the case of Ella F. White against D. Clifford White was made on behalf of the plaintiff by her attorney, George A. Speenburgh. The action is brought for separation on the ground of abandonment. White is employed as a chauffeur by Mrs. Kenton, a wealthy New York woman who maintains a summer residence at Delhi, Delaware county. According to his own affidavit, he receives $100 a month from May to October and $50 a month from October to May. His wife claims he receives more than that. There are two children. Judge Hasbrouck granted $3 a week alimony for Mrs. White and $2 a week for each of the children, and also allowed $60 counsel fee. There was no appearance on the part of White.

Married Too Young.

An interlocutory decree annulling the marriage of Emilia Vinci, and Gaetano Asci was granted upon the report and recommendation of Girard L. McAllister, the referee before whom the case was tried. The wife gave her age as 19 when she married but her real age was 17, and as she had not obtained the consent of her parents her father, John Vinci, brought an action to annul the marriage. Frank W. Brooks appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance by the defendant.

Interlocutory Decree Granted.

An interlocutory decree of divorce was granted in the case of Mary Ale against William D. Ale. They were married at Grahamsville on January 5, 1896. The co-respondent named in the suit was Idelle Brimmar and the acts complained of occurred both in the town of Shandaken and in this city during the years 1909 and 1910. Frank W. Brooks appeared for the plaintiff; the defendant made no appearance.

William and Mary--William of Orange, Mary of England

UPON the accession of William and Mary to the English throne a new element became fused with the principles of furniture design and construction as they were then in vogue in England.

This meant a mingling of the English with the Dutch, producing a most agreeable harmony in design and an unquestioned sturdiness of construction—the latter an essential attribute of both peoples.

The William and Mary bedroom suite pictured here is one we selected from the offerings in the Paris of good furniture—Grand Rapids, Michigan.

To our discriminating customers to whom the charms of this furniture appeal, we assure unprecedented good value at a most reasonable figure. Permit us the privilege of showing it to you.

An Infant Mathematician.

(Carl Friedrich Gauss, the famous German mathematician, when he was three years old overheard his father making a calculation in regard to the wages of some workmen. Young Carl suddenly looked up and called his father's attention to the fact that he had made an error in his figures in one place. This boy entered the gymnasium at the age of eleven and mastered all studies with the greatest rapidity, so that at fourteen he was thoroughly well informed in literature, science and philosophy. His mathematical faculty increased rather than diminished with years, and much of modern mathematical science is due to his labor.)

Talk to Manufacturers

There are something like 125,000,000 people in the United States and Canada.

Every one of these who can read—reads a newspaper. All of them may not be customers for your product. So you can subdivide these millions into classes and into communities, and reach just the ones you want through newspaper advertising.

Every dealer is a newspaper reader and you influence retailers and consumers through the same newspaper advertisement.

Manufacturers with a peculiar advertising problem are invited to write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers' Association, World Building, New York.

Wanted His Orders Direct.

A rather quaint yarn concerns a certain general officer who was so misguided as to take his son with him as aid. The well-meaning young man, delivering an order to an artillery brigadier, who was feeling a bit lightheaded that morning, wisely said: "If you please, my father wants you to move your guns to so and so." "Very well, my boy," replied the brigadier. "Now run along and see what your mother wants done!"

HISTORIAN BRINK DIES AT KATSBAN

Benjamin Myer Brink, who has done more to arouse and preserve interest in the history and historical importance of Ulster county than any other man, died at two o'clock Sunday morning at his home at Katsbaan, in his sixty-eighth year.

Since the death of Julius Schoonmaker more than a year ago, Mr. Brink has been custodian of the old Senate House in this city, to which position he was appointed temporarily after Mr. Schoonmaker's death and which he continued to fill permanently by civil service appointment.

During the summer Mr. Brink was attacked with lumbago and for several weeks was compelled to remain at his home. In August he suffered from a complication of matters but resolutely continued to work each day until about a month ago when he was compelled again to seek his bed.

Mr. Brink was born in the town of Saugerties and resided there during most of his life. About nineteen years ago he removed to Kingston and became night editor of the Kingston Leader. After several years he assisted the late Henry G. Crouch in the editorial management of the Kingston Argus and afterwards for some time resumed his connection with the Leader. From 1905 until the beginning of the present year he conducted Olde Ulster, an historical and genealogical magazine which has done more to stimulate interest in historical matters than any other publication ever issued. Olde Ulster in its complete form is a mine of historical treasures invaluable to the historical student.

The historical work he performed was appreciated by a large and constantly growing circle of acquaintance and during the past ten years he was visited frequently by historical students who made pilgrimages both to Kingston and Katsbaan especially to consult with him on matters relating to New York state history and many historical societies and state and local libraries throughout the United States sought his advice and judgment. About fifteen years ago he was engaged to make historical researches and assist in the preparation of a history of Livingston county which became a model for historical accuracy.

Mr. Brink's first historical publication of importance was the "History of Saugerties," which he brought out about eighteen years ago. In order to stimulate his historical interest in Saugerties, where a Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was in process of formation, he wrote a series of historical articles for the Saugerties Post. Further research led to an elaboration of many of the subjects and many his work was embodied in his History of Saugerties. An edition of 500 copies was printed and the type was distributed. Mr. Brink had been given orders for a limited number of copies and thought an edition of 500 copies would be sufficient to meet demands for many years to come. The book at once met with favorable notice in all the New York newspapers and literary reviews throughout the country and within three months the edition had become exhausted. It has never been reprinted but there is a large and constantly growing demand for the book. One of the features of the history was a collection of Dutch nursery songs which Mr. Brink had gathered and which was considered by students of Colonial New York history to be the most complete collection published up to that time.

As the editor of Olde Ulster, Mr. Brink performed a task which most men would have shunned because of the vast amount of labor involved and the infinitesimal financial return received.

In his first issue of Olde Ulster, for January, 1905, Mr. Brink among other things stated:

"It is the hope and the intention of the projector of this magazine to take up the work begun by that society (The Ulster Historical Society) but in another form. Papers will be welcome upon any correlative subject that are brief, well-written, clear and accurate. Historical romancing is not desired. For statements not well established, authorities must be given. Genealogies will be published as given, except when manifestly inaccurate; and be subject to correction in future numbers."

"Besides, there is a folksam and jettam of history. This is often of value. It frequently gives a side view upon events and enables one to form a judgment. All this will be picked up from the tide and given an appropriate place."

"There are many quaint and curious things in this cosmopolitan old country of ours, that needs a place of permanent record. This periodical will try to preserve such. Hardly a nationality of western Europe that did not send her sons and daughters here in the Seventeenth Century to make Old Ulster."

It was a big undertaking for any man or magazine that was outlined

Fraud Paint

The worst mistake one is likely to make in painting is wrong paint; it is easy to make.

We all say "Ours is the best," and there are 1,000 of us. One is best; but a dozen are so near on a level that no one knows, for sure, that his is the one.

The worst paints are worst liars; they know what they are, put on a bold face, and brazen it out.

Their one argument is low price; but low-price paint is always, must be, a fraud; it is made to cheat.

DEVON.

—Advertisement.

In the prefatory article quoted. Particularly is the historian hampered in his work by a limited subscription list, and often he finds that men who possess valuable historical material prefer to enjoy it selfishly rather than share its knowledge with anyone else. How fully Mr. Brink realized the difficulties which would beset his path is tersely expressed in the concluding paragraph of his announcement, which stated:

"This then is our field. The success of this effort depends upon the patriotism of the people of Old Ulster. There can be no great financial return for such an enterprise. But with the help of all who are interested it can be made to pay expenses. And the projector desires that it may appear in creditable form to the eye, taste and judgment of all who are interested."

The patriotism of the people to which he referred responded promptly to the appeal and two months later Mr. Brink was able to reproduce in fac-simile the old Indian deed given to Thomas Chambers in 1852 for the land now comprising the city of Kingston, together with an accurate translation of the deed. Until the deed was brought to light through Mr. Brink's efforts in 1905, nothing had been known of it for nearly a hundred years. The New Patent and the Indian deed to New Patz, together with many other rare and valuable papers, were reproduced in fac-simile in Olde Ulster, which with each year became a mine of valuable information based on fact instead of fiction, and without frequent reference to which no accurate history of Ulster county ever will be undertaken by any writer. The Rev. Roswell Randall Hoes became a frequent contributor to the magazine. From his invaluable collection of documents he painstakingly collated many a comprehensive article dealing with specific subjects, and in succeeding years, as the sphere of the magazine's influence became broader other historical students gave Olde Ulster's readers the benefit of their labors. But of the material which in the magazine during its few years of existence, fully one-half was collected, and fully one-half the articles were written by Mr. Brink, whose labor from the beginning of the magazine was a labor of love for the county of his birth.

Olde Ulster ceased publication with the December issue last year. That issue completed the tenth year of its publication and in a retrospect of the work undertaken and accomplished Mr. Brink stated:

"We can only speak of the many almost forgotten incidents, illustrations and incidents, happenings we have gathered. It would have been gratifying to have secured more. It would have been most pleasing to have given many more illustrations. It would have delighted us to have unearthed many more forgotten things for our pages. For even ten years are but brief. We have tried to obtain everything written in verse about the county, the Catskills, the Hudson and our history. We have tried to secure, even the indifferent. Our readers know how far we have succeeded. They know and realize to what an extent the magazine has proved a success. Many have loved Olde Ulster. Its editor feels that all he can do has been done, not all he would have wished to do. And his obligations to all those who have appreciated, assisted and supported are great. He can make no other return than this acknowledgment. But where shall he begin and where end?"

And as a benediction upon his readers and faithful friends, appeared in the concluding number a poem whose authorship was concealed through a sense of modesty. The poem was as follows:

Vale,

Lay down the pen. The hearth is cold. Rake out the fire this wintry night. Old 'Sopus' story we have told— Old Ulster's records pass from sight.

We have of Atharhacton dreamed— We have in Wildwyck's stockade dwelt— Three hundred years of summers gleamed— Three hundred wintry north winds felt.

The savage and blood-curdling yells Around the stockade chilled our blood: We saw the rescued ones return From where the savage New Fort stood. Then passed one hundred years. The brand By hostile foreign foes was thrown.

And 'Sopus, as a ruin, stands, Because she dared to be her own. Look! Look! out of her ashes white, Majestic, populous and free, The mighty Empire State arises— The citadel of liberty.

Our task is done. Ten long, long years— And can it be that it is ten? Vale. Another truthful hand And patient brain may take the pen."

The work which most endeared Mr. Brink to the hearts of the people of Ulster county was that which resulted in the removal of the remains of Governor Clinton, first governor of New York state and a native of Ulster county, from the Congressional Cemetery at Washington, D. C., and their re-interment in the First Dutch Churchyard of Kingston. The ceremony occurred on May 20, 1908, and marked the first of the three days' observance and celebration of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Kingston.

The idea of bringing Governor Clinton's remains to the city, where for so many years he had lived while occupying the office of county clerk of Ulster county, seven terms as governor of New York state and vice-president of the United States, originated with Mr. Brink, who first called attention to the fact of Kingston's approaching two hundred and fiftieth anniversary in the December, 1907, issue of Olde Ulster. The board of trade immediately called a public meeting, at which the celebration was decided on, and Mr. Brink became secretary of the committee on plan and scope. Mr. Brink sought the assistance of Chaplain Hoes and Louis Franklin Genet, a great-grandson of Governor Clinton, and set out to secure the applications of Governor Clinton's descendants for the removal of his remains to Kingston. This was by no means an easy task, and he devoted four months to the work. Then he called on Governor Hughes, whom he interested in the suggestion that the ceremonies be undertaken in the name of the state of New York, and an appropriation of $500 was made by the legislature to cover the actual expenses involved. At Mr. Brink's earnest personal solicitations, Ex-Governor David B. Hill consented to make the principal address at the re-interment of Governor Clinton's remains, and Mr. Brink also spoke briefly at that time. The remains were brought to Kingston by Mr. Brink as "personal" of the Clinton heirs, and throughout the journey unusual honors were paid by various state and United States officials.

Not content with what he had accomplished in that direction, Mr. Brink later procured funds for the erection of a monument over the grave of Colonel Charles DeWitt, the Revolutionary hero and statesman, in the cemetery at Old Hurley, and over the grave of Colonel Jacob Rutsen at Rosendale.

In all these matters, Mr. Brink's modesty forbade him from taking a prominent part; he was willing that others should have the glory provided he secured the attainment of his ambition. Throughout his life he displayed an intensely patriotic and public-spirited nature and always was willing to sacrifice himself for the common good. His work in tracing genealogical lines was extensive and accurate and he was always willing to give up his time to aid anyone who was interested in that subject. This latter characteristic applied not only to genealogy and history, but in all matters where he could be of assistance to anyone without appearing obtrusive, he could be depended on. This trait was known and made use of not only by the most humble seeker after facts but also by students and professional men supposed to be experts in their line. He was an authority on the history and ecclesiastical procedure of the Reformed Church in America, and for many years attended the sessions of the General Synod, where his advice was sought.

Mr. Brink was a lineal descendant of Huybert Lambertse, who came to America from Holland in 1658, whose son, Cornelius, adopted the name of Brink and became the progenitor of the Brink family in America.

Mr. Brink was a member of the Katsbaan Reformed Church, of which he had been an elder, and during his residence in Kingston he was a member of the First Dutch Church. He was a member of the Holland Society of New York.

Mr. Brink was twice married. He is survived by his wife and four children, the Rev. Henry W. Brink of Ashokan, Miss Louise Brink, Persen M. Brink of New York city and Mrs. Mary Gerhardt.

The funeral will take place from his late residence at Katsbaan on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock and the interment will be in the Katsbaan cemetery.

Holding Out on Sundays. I don't know how it is in your church, comments Deacon Bert Walker, but I know that in mine if every member gave one-tenth of all he made to the Lord we could hire the finest preacher in New York city and build a church building 12 stories high and then have money enough left to save a whole army of heathens.—Kansas City Star.

WANT-FILLING

Just turn to the Want Columns of this newspaper right now and see how many want-dollars are there today for those who are sufficiently up to date to be readers and users of The Freeman Want Ads. One of the very best and most profitable habits that can be acquired is to read The Freeman Want Ads daily, a practice that will pay big dividends in the long run. Judge for yourself after seeing how many are doing it, if it will not be worth your while to join the ranks.
ADVERTISERS ESTIMATE THE VALUE BY THE CIRCULATION. And The Freeman has a circulation double that of all other Kingston dailies combined.

RECENT GOSSIP IN GOTHAM TOWN

(By Gotham Kalkreuth.)
New York, Oct. 4.—This is one of the little romances which have crowded Wall street in the wake of the sensational jumps in war stock prices. He had the girl and the home picked out and all he needed was a little cash.
So he borrowed about $32,000 from the stock exchange firm which employed him—without the members' knowledge—and played a lively tune in war stocks.
One day the books were audited and the shortage was discovered. A clever lawyer who specializes in this sort of thing, was called in and he quickly traced the missing funds.
Confronted with the evidence, the clerk, who is little more than a boy, quickly confessed. The brokers prepared themselves for a big loss. But the young man said:
"You'll get every cent back. I'm a big winner."
The next morning the young man's account was closed out at the opening of the market and when everything had been sold, the account showed a pure profit of $8,500.
That afternoon appeared the heart broken fiancée, the young man and his parents at the lawyer's office. The girl carried a bankbook which showed the sums the young man had given her each week to save for their little flat. All pleaded tearfully that the young man not be sent to prison.
"Well, if you've fully decided to go right, I'll let you have the chance," the lawyer finally said. "But marry this girl and behave yourself."
The little party started to file out, but the young man tarried, with something evidently on his mind.
At last he said:
"But who gets my $8,500 profit?"
The lawyer whirled on him.
"Look here. I just said I wasn't going to send you to jail. Now I feel as if I was changing my mind. If you are in this office a minute longer by that clock I will change it."
The youth fled—but his fiancée kept her little bank account and her future husband, thoroughly contrite now has a job with another firm of brokers. As to who got the $8,500—well, lawyers have a reputation for charging what the traffic will bear.
J. T. Featherston, commissioner of street cleaning, sent a letter to city clerks asking them to preach on "Cleanliness" on October 10 and to mention the asphalt polishing department and its exhibition which opens October 11.
When Father James B. Curry, pastor of St. James's Roman Catholic Church in James street, got his circular he was indignant. He sat right down and wrote the commissioner a red hot letter, of which the following are extracts:
"The enclosed circular was received at my residence last Saturday evening. It is a sample of many communications that reach us in the course of the year wherein city pastors are requested to recommend to their congregations the pet theories of faddists and fanatics who endeavor not only to foist upon an over-patient and long-enduring people their peculiar fancies and fads, but also to do so by the cheapest method of general advertising.
"The proximity of dates—City Broom Sunday, October 10, and election day, November 2—suggests at once the idea that you are seeking political capital through a pulpit exploitation of your administration and of your department.
"I believe that some of our city pastors will bite at the bait, and thus boost the administration in an oft-repeated 'verily and amen.' As I am one to whom you have addressed your communication, let me suggest that instead of the proposed exhibition and parade you clean our city streets—the uncleanest of any streets that I have ever seen either here or in Europe, notwithstanding the handsome yearly appropriation of nearly $3,000,000.
"It is certain that many improvements are being made which necessitate the digging up of our streets, but the side streets of our tenement districts, where no improvements are being made, are unclean and foully odiferous. Today no attempt is made to clean our streets any further than to take the topping from the street filth and this is done with little and, more frequently, with no sprinkling of water. Our dust-covered homes are good witnesses against your administration, as well as our eyes, our ears, our mouths, and our noses stuffed with the germ-laden dust and dirt of our streets.
"As for the clergymen, we preach for the salvation of souls, not for political capital."

Unlock the FULL Nourishment of Your Oatmeal

The rich nutriment in oatmeal can only be unlocked with one key—thorough cooking.

H-O is the only steam-cooked oatmeal, the only oatmeal which is cooked at the mill for over 2 hours—in sealed cookers.

The full, delicate flavor of H-O is secured mainly by this thorough cooking.

H-O Oatmeal with 20 minutes' cooking on your stove produces perfectly-cooked, delicious, strength-giving oatmeal.

And there's another reason for the H-O flavor—that is the zealous care with which we select our oats from different sections—all plump, clean oats—fairly bursting with nutriment.

Why not serve H-O Oatmeal tomorrow—steaming with its tempting, rich aroma?

AUTOMOBILE SUIT.

Owner of Smashed Saxon Opposes Trial in Queens County.

An automobile accident on the Merrick road on Long Island some time ago in which George E. Van Demark and his wife, Maude Van Demark, were injured was followed by a suit for damages which made its appearance at Judge Hasbrouck's special term of the supreme court on Saturday when a motion was made on behalf of Warren E. Burns, whom they sued, to change the place of trial from Ulster to Queens county.
The automobile containing the Van Demarks and some friends was traveling along the Merrick road behind a large auto truck. Several cars were coming from the opposite direction, among which was the limousine owned by Mr. Burns. The limousine swerved out in the road from behind another car, which it passed, then with full power on avoided a collision with the auto truck, and in swerving back again sideswiped the Van Demark car.
According to Van Demark's statement on the argument, Van Demark is a poor man who earns $18 a week and he saved four years in order to buy an automobile. He bought a Saxon.
There is a dispute as to whether the accident occurred in Queens or Nassau county as the county line extends near the place where the collision occurred. Mr. Burns is a resident of New York county. Mr. Burns, who desires a trial in Nassau county, claims to have seven material witnesses whose convenience will be met by a trial there; the Van Demarks claim to have five witnesses living in Ulster county whose convenience will best be served by a trial here, besides two of the witnesses whom Mr. Burns claims are witnesses on his behalf.
Judge Hasbrouck reserved decision. Bertrand L. Pettigrew of New York city appeared for Mr. Burns and the motion; Robert C. Moore of New York city appeared for the Van Demarks and opposed.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1368—A Fashionable Skirt Model—Ladies' Three Tier Skirt, with Four Gore Foundation.
This attractive model, as here shown was made in sand colored taffeta, and trimmed in quaint and pretty style, with velvet ribbon in a contrasting shade. The skirt could be made without the two upper, or one upper flounce. It is nice for cloth, for serge, for silk, poplin, voiles and all wash fabrics. The flounce portions are cut in 3 sections and the skirt may be finished in raised or normal waist line. For linen, ratine or crepe this model is very desirable. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It requires 3 3/4 yards of 44 inch material for a medium size, which measures about 3 yards at foot of lower flounce. The foundation skirt will require 1 1/2 yards of 27 inch lining.
A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Oct. 4.—Trading was comparatively orderly on the stock exchange this morning. A number of specialties were established at substantially higher prices and there were brisk advances in other issues. The railway equipment stocks were the most prominent features. American Locomotive advanced 2 1/2 to 13 1/2, followed by a reaction to 12 1/2, and Pressed Steel moved up 3 points on heavy trading to 77. There were large transactions in Westinghouse at the outset with first sales at 129 1/2, to 129 1/2, with a reaction to 129 1/2, to 129 1/2, at the close Saturday. American Agricultural rose 2 points to 71. Goodrich a point to 35 and Rubber common 1 1/2 to 56. The standard issues were again neglected and showed fractional losses. U. S. Steel yielding 1/2 to 8 1/2, and Pacific 1/2 to 13 1/2, and Southern Pacific 1/2 to 27 1/2. Only trading changes were noted in the copper, but Miami Copper was in good demand, advancing 1 1/2 to 23 1/2.

Stocks were freely supplied at concessions in the late forenoon, the demand not being sufficient to absorb the offerings. The copper stocks were generally heavy, declining from half a point to one point in inspiration. The rails showed fractional losses. Baldwin declined 3 points to 123 and Studebaker 2 to 110. Steel common declined 1/2 to 80 1/2, against 81 1/2 on Saturday. Albia Chalmers, however, sold up to 48 1/2, against 45 1/2 on Saturday. Money loaning at 1 1/2 per cent.

Price movements in the late forenoon were irregular, some issues making vigorous advances, while others were heavily supplied at concessions. Bethlehem Steel advanced to 35 1/2, a gain of 24 points. General Electric gained 1/2 in all, selling at 185. Some of the other industrials were in free supply at concessions ranging from 1 to 2 points. The railway issues were in better demand, Reading advancing 1/2 to 15 1/2, Southern Pacific 1/2 to 13 1/2, and Central a point to 97 1/2. Union Pacific 1 1/2 to 12 1/2, Mexican Petroleum advanced 2 points to 90 1/2. The market closed unsettled. Government unchanged; other bonds strong.

All About a Chicken.

One chicken caused considerable trouble to the owners of a house near East Pierpont street this afternoon when one neighbor accused the other of stealing her chicken. Policeman White attracted by the crowd walked to the scene and when he reached there the stolen chicken was seen walking across the street. Further developments are expected Tuesday.

Street Force is Busy.

Members of the street force with Engineer "Billy" Pratt in charge of the steam roller, are busy today finishing the depressing of Murray street. The force has topped and rolled Chambers street for its entire length and are now working on Murray street. In some places on Chambers street the road bed affords better walking for pedestrians than the sidewalk.

Jaggery Sugar.

Though a Tamil poem enumerates 84 ways in which the Palma palm may be used, one of its most interesting uses is the production of a sugar called jaggery. This is the result of boiling down the fresh juice and is one of the chief sugars of South India. Four or five quarts per tree per day is the yield for four or five months. Once in every three years the sap drawing process is omitted, as otherwise the tree would die. The tree bears to yield at fifteen years and continues for about fifty years. The female tree yields about twice as much sap as the male. Three quarts of this sap make one pound of sugar or jaggery, which is the chief sugar used by the poor classes of India—Argonaut.

The Blow of a Wave.

There is an instrument of English invention which is employed to determine the measure of the blow of a wave. This instrument was used to measure the wave blow off the Skerryvore rock, Scotland. There the waves sweep in from the wide Atlantic. In summer a force of over 600 pounds to the square foot was recorded. In winter as high as a ton to the square foot was attained. These figures give some idea as to what ships, lifeboats and other similar structures have to contend with during stress of foul weather.

Managing a Woman.

Napoleon, statesman and hero of a hundred battles, once remarked: "To bring a child of a woman of my own family to reason I must needs deliver harangues as long as if she were the senate and the council of the state together."

It Might Be Worse.

Foot—1 feel I haven't written anything that will live. Friend—Look on the bright side of it. Be thankful that you are alive in spite of what you have written.—London Opinion.

The barriers are not erected that can stay to aspiring talents and industry. "This far and no farther."—Beethoven.

PHILLIES WIN CHAMPIONSHIP FLAG IN NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE

PHILLIES WIN OUT
IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Much Credit Due to Manager Moran and Pitcher Alexander.

Tail-end Team, Not Given Chance at Beginning of Season, Captures Pennant—Praise for Cravath, Luderus and Others.

(By CHARLES H. CROWELL.)

To Pat Moran and Grover Cleveland Alexander belong the honor of landing the National league pennant this year for the Philadelphia team. To Moran for his gameness and rare judgment in crucial situations and to Alexander for the cunning he has displayed with his right wrist.

Moran's methods are the kind that win. He took hold of a tail-end team at the beginning of the season and by tact and courage landed a winner in his first year as a manager. He is known as a stern man on the field, and when he has anything to say to a player he does not indulge in any wheedling nonsense. He does not ride his men; neither does he pet them. There is no manager in baseball more serious-minded than Patrick John Moran. Moran knows as much about inside baseball as any man living. He seldom, if ever, plays hunches, or guesses that a certain play is the right one. His study and observation of what to him is a serious business has taught him what he firmly believes the right thing to do in each situation that arises in the course of a game. On several occasions he has yanked twirlers when it seemed foolhardy to do so, and at other times he has allowed pitchers to remain in the box when it seemed certain that the opposition would hit him all over the lot.

Put in Pinch Hitters.

He has put in pinch hitters when it seemed foolish to the fans, and he has sent supposedly weak hitters to bat in regular turn when it seemed foolhardy to do so. No manager in modern baseball has handled a team with such delicate judgment as Moran has handled the Phillies. And the Phillies have won.

No one ever suspected Moran of having managerial ability. He seemed sometimes but as a general thing he has proved himself even more deserving of the title of "Miracle Man" than George Stallings, because it was his first job as a manager, while Stallings is a man of experience.

Moran was born February 7, 1875, at Pithsburg, Mass. He was signed by the Lyons club of the New York State league in 1897. He played with the Montreal club of the Eastern league in 1900 and became the property of the Boston Nationals in 1901. He was traded to the Chicago Nationals in 1905 and in 1910 he was traded to Philadelphia. He was appointed manager of the team this spring after Charlie Dooley had been dropped.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WINS FIRST GAME

Perhaps never before in football history have Kingstonians witnessed such overwhelming success as was achieved by the High School team on Saturday afternoon, when it defeated the Albany High School team by a score of 18 to 6 at the Athletic Field. Albany had a heavy line-up with Mattice, center; Stine, rg; Hubble, lg; Delehanty, lt; Jones, rt; Mahar, left end; Johnstone, right end; Corley, q. b.; McCudde, t. b. Sutherland, l. h. b.; Taylor, t. b. The home team was made up of Hallinan, c.; Gregory, q. b.; Pehleman, l. h. b.; Terwilliger, r. h. b.; Wheeler (capt.), f. b.; Bernstein, r. t.; Gill, l. t.; Joyce, l. c.; Palist, r. t.; DuMont, r. g.; Johnston, r. e. Arthur Jones, an old Kingston hero, officiated.

First Quarter.

In the beginning of the game Kingston kicked off and A. H. S. made a slight gain, but Kingston held them on the second down and forced them to kick on the fourth. Wheeler caught the ball and made a 10 yard gain. Then Pehleman, Gregory and Joyce successfully ripped the Albany line. Wheeler then kicked and Albany made an unsuccessful attempt to receive the ball, which was captured by Hallinan. After this Kingston worked her way to the five yard line, where Albany temporarily checked their progress. At last the ball being on the two yard line Wheeler carried it over and scored the first touch down of the season. The score was then 6 to 0, Bernstein having failed to kick a goal.

Palist again kicked to Albany who let her full back, Taylor, carry the ball for 12 yards, but this was most all lost when Albany lost 10 yards by a tackle of Wheeler's.

Kingston then received the ball, but could make little use of it, as the quarter was soon called.

Second Quarter.

Soon after the whistle blew Kingston lost the ball on a forward pass but regained it when Albany was again forced to kick it. Wheeler then made a 12 yard gain which was followed up by a touch-down by Terwilliger. The score was then 12 to 0, and there were no more touch-downs made that quarter, although several neat plays by Terwilliger, Gregory and Bernstein.

Third Quarter.

In the beginning of the second half, Relyea was substituted for DuMont. It being Albany's turn to kick off, Kingston was given an opportunity to make several gains. Terwilliger at one time making 10 yards, and Gregory came near having another consecutive play in his credit but was penalized. Kingston then had to resort to a kick but held Albany, who received the ball for some time. However, the latter school began to make good use of their big fullback Taylor, who time and again carried the ball on down the field. Johnston was taken from the end and replaced by Campbell.

Albany moved from the twenty to the 10 yard line.

Fourth Quarter.

Taylor commenced the play for Albany by an unsuccessful center rush, but then throwing himself against the Kingston team he made a touch-down for Albany, making the score 12 to 6 in Kingston's favor. Albany again kicked off to Kingston and the ball was received by Gill, who made a gain for Kingston. Ryan was played at quarterback and Gregory at end, taking Joyce's place. Johnston was again put in the game. Then Terwilliger, Wheeler and Pehleman each smashed the Albany line, the last making two line gains, and having left the ball about 1 yard from the goal he was given the play that added the last 6 points to Kingston's score. The score was 18 to 6 as Bernstein failed to kick a goal. Only 2 minutes being left there was not much chance for Albany to better her condition, but Kingston gave her the opportunity by kicking off to Albany and the latter made a desperate effort to score but without success.

The whole game was filled with interest and well repaid the large audience of not only students but citizens and business men who came out to see the great game in spite of the rain.

ONLY LIVING SURVIVOR OF THE FAMOUS MONITOR.

The G. A. R. encampment in Washington has brought forth many "last survivors" of famous campaigns. One of the most interesting is John Durst, the last living member of the crew of the famous monitor, Ericsson's "cheese-box on a raft" which met the confederate Merrimack and defeated her in a historic battle with which every school child in this country is familiar.

Durst occupied a prominent position wearing the uniform which he wore in the famous battle more than 50 years ago. The picture shows him saluting President Wilson in the reviewing stand.

Yeaple Out of Jail.

In the case of The People vs. William C. Yeaple of Marlborough, heard before Judge Jenkins in county court this morning, the judge held that the commitment to jail by a Marlborough justice was faulty and ruled that the prisoner be discharged. Yeaple was sentenced to jail for ninety days on a charge of public intoxication and sentence was suspended. While on parole it is alleged that Yeaple again became intoxicated and he was sent to jail under the suspended sentence without a hearing. Judge Jenkins held that the prisoner must be given another hearing before a justice before the suspended sentence could be again in force. Andrew Cook appeared for Yeaple who has been in jail pending this appeal of his case.

A few hours after Kelly had surrendered himself Moran died, and Kelly was charged with homicide. He had a hearing before Coroner Dunn today. The young man is known in Kingston and was here while the high school was being built.

FRENCH AVIATORS BOMBARD METZ

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Oct. 4.—Metz, the mightiest German fortress on the western frontier, has been bombed by an armada of French aeroplanes, it was officially announced today by the French war office.

Forty shells were dropped upon the railway station and military works at Sablon, one of the suburbs of Metz.

One of the forts in the great circle of defensive works encircling Metz is at Sablon. The Metz raid is an important operation in the air offensive which the allies are keeping up to cripple German lines of communication.

Earthquake in Nevada.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Reno, Nevada, Oct. 4.—All railroad trains were running under "slow orders" in the neighborhood of Inyo, Nevada, today because of earthquake shocks of Friday and Saturday night. Several railroad water tanks were shaken from their supports and toppled on to the tracks and other damage done. At Lovelock, Nevada, persons fled from their homes in their night clothing. Three brick buildings were damaged there. In Inyo many walls were cracked and chimneys were broken off. Saturday night's shock followed those of the night before in southern California, which were slight.

Bannon Company of Hasbrouck avenue is installing a new hot water heating system in the residence of Mrs. Emory Freer at Esopus, the residence of Warren Sammons at Rosendale and the new Ashokan school. Simple Air Pressure Test.

Any one can demonstrate the pressure of the atmosphere by the simple experiment which follows: On the flat of an iron lay a thin sheet of rubber—part of an old tobacco pouch will do. Place a small, thin lid containing some wadding soaked in spirits of wine on the rubber and ignite the spirits. Then press a wineglass down tightly over the flame. When the flame dies out it will be found that the two articles are firmly united and may be suspended by a wire, and some time will elapse before they separate. The explanation is that the flame consumes the oxygen in the glass and lowers the pressure when the greater pressure of the atmosphere squeezes the articles together.—Exchange.

Parent-Teachers Association.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 5 was held in the school building Friday, October 1. Every meeting of this club shows the growing interest felt in this school by the increasing number of members, thirty-five being present at this meeting. The club decided to join "The Mother's Assembly of the State of New York" and voted to send its president as a delegate to the annual meeting of the Mother's Assembly, held in Poughkeepsie, October 5th to 8th. After the business meeting a social hour was held and refreshments served. At the close of the afternoon all felt that parents and teachers had been drawn closer together, and all for the benefit of the children of No. 5. The next regular meeting will be held November 9, 1915.

Inherited Qualities.

Science has proved to us beyond a doubt that long before men and women lived in homes and even huts they lived in the branches of trees. The strength found in a new born baby's hands and fingers is an inheritance of prehistoric ages, when children and grown-ups alike spent much of their leisure by day and lived at night in the branches of trees.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Oct. 4.—In supporting our prediction that the Phillies will win the world series battle with the Red Sox, we submit herewith the last valuable statistics that show that the Sox haven't a tremendous bulge on the Phillies—as is commonly supposed.

There's a summary just below this paragraph that will show you two surprising facts. One is that the Phillies are outfielding the Red Sox. The other is that if the batting records of the rival pitchers were excluded, the result would be that the team batting average of the Phillies would be .261 against .264 for the Red Sox—an advantage for the Sox that hardly is noticeable.

Here is the summary which includes the averages for all four departments:

Department	Red Sox	Phillies	Red Sox	Phillies
Batting	.255	.257	.257	.273
Pitching	.235	.184	.275	.282
Infield	.248	.260	.260	.260
Outfield	.248	.265	.267	.271
Grand Averages	.257	.242	.271	.272

The Sox have the batting "edge" on the Phillies mainly because the Sox pitchers are a bunch of sluggers as pitchers go. Six of them are hitting for a grand average of .235—only 22 points under that of the team average.

Here are two tables, one concerning each of the rival infields, that in figures, tell better than can words, the story of the Phillies supremacy in that department of the game:

Phillies' Infield.

In the outfield the Red Sox, as a whole, show superior to the Phillies. That's due very largely to the tremendous hitting ability of Tris Speaker and his wonderful skill as a fielder.

The table below lists these Red Sox and four Phillies outfielders. It's definitely settled that Speaker, Hooper and Lewis will do the out-felding chores for the Sox. Therefore, their records are the only ones to be considered in figuring the strength of the Red Sox outfield.

With the Phillies, however, it is necessary to get to a fair result, to include the records of the four outfielders who may get into the series. Whitted and Cravath, of course, will be fixtures. The choice for the third man will be made from between Becker and Paskert—with the chances favoring Paskert.

Here are the outfielding records:

Cady probably will do the regular catching for the Sox, with Carrigan ready for relief work so the records of both are given. Killifer certainly will be back of the bat for the Phillies if he recovers in time from the injury to his arm. If not, Burns, the midget, will be the backstopper for the Phillies.

Here are the records covering the rival catchers, which show that the Phillies catchers are outbattling those of the Red Sox, but the Bostonians have retaliated by outfielding them.

And here are the batting and fielding records of the rival pitchers who are likely to mingle in the duelling. Six Red Sox pitchers are listed against four Phillies because it's unlikely that more than four Phillies twirlers will work while it is highly probable that all six of the Red Sox pitchers may break into the series.

The Phillies pitchers are "joke" batters; the Red Sox sextet as you would notice is quite handy with the mace. "Babe" Ruth is the real star. He's hitting for .316 which makes up for the willow weakness of Shore. Alexander, unfortunately for the Phillies, is the worst batter among the Philadelphia pitchers.
